Catholic Building Convention Regarded Highly by Bishops

Statements released by the Rev. Alfred J. Zanolar, president of St. Joseph's College, indicate the Catholic hierarchy's high regard for the National Catholic Building Convention and Exposition which the College will sponsor for the second consecutive year, June 14-16, at the Stevens Hotel, Chicago.

His Eminence Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago and honorary chairman of the convention and exposition, has said: "I think that one of the most interesting things attached to the preliminaries of this conference has been that without much advertisement it has attracted interest all over the country. When it was announced it seemed to hit a need in the life of the Church in this country."

"I hope that this isn't just an isolated conference on building. I hope that from time to time we shall have other conferences, because it is my conviction that if we gather together to discuss the common problems which we face on building, we shall all derive much benefit from a discussion of the subject."

Three Sessions

Divided into three main sessions—architecture, building materials and contracting—the 1949 convention will also hold special programs for religious superiors, diocesan building committees and school administrators. All speakers and panel members will be taken from fields of greatest interest to Catholic institutional builders.

Father Zanolar said that approval of the National Catholic Building Convention and Exposition has come from nearly all United States bishops.

Sixth Congress Of NFCCS Held In May; Chicago

Resolutions covering displaced persons, federal aid to education, and interracial relations were hammered home in the closing sessions of the sixth national congress of the National Federation of Catholic College Students at the Congress Hotel in Chicago early in May.

More than 900 Catholic college-student, delegates and observers were present during the five-day meeting which adjoined with the election of new national officers.

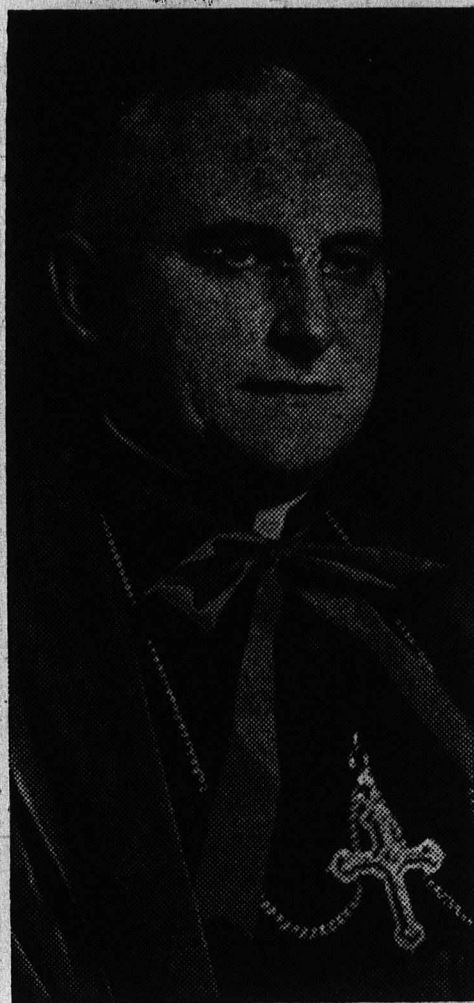

Extend Activity

Relative to displaced persons, the N.F.C.C.S. resolved that its DP committee extend its activity to include a program by which "sponsorships are encouraged not only for students but also for other displaced persons, with special emphasis placed on the importation of families."

Covering federal aid to education, the congress waxed enthusiastic, terming the first amendment "a pillar of American Democracy." It was further resolved that all Catholic college students should know and propagate the true interpretation of the First Amendment and, moreover, should go on record as not approving any Congressional legislation concerning federal education.

Against Prejudice

Lastly, in regard to racial relations, the conference once more stated its antipathy toward any form of racial discrimination or prejudice, terming it "a human denial of the Divine Truth..." It was held that one of the first tasks confronting educational institutions in the United States is the abolition of all prejudicial laws and practices which hamper the Negro and to raise him to complete participation in the national life of our American people.

National officers who assumed leadership for the coming year are Thomas A. Brickley, president, a Fifty Catholic parish and organizational correspondents from the diocese of Lafayette assembled at the college Sunday, May 22, for the Diocesan Press Convention. The institute was aimed at informing reporters of the requirements of both the secular and Catholic newspapers.

Attendees heard talks by the Rev. Alfred J. Zanolar, college president; the Rev. R. H. Esser, college professor of English; Clifford B. Ward, editor, Ft. Wayne News-Sentinel; W. F. Fink, managing editor, Our Sunday Visitor; and the Rev. James E. Quinn, editor, Lafayette edition, Our Sunday Visitor.

The delegates took a student-escorted tour of the campus at 11 o'clock, followed by dinner at 12:30 with the program convening in the library's "green room" at 1:30.

Rotarians to Convene At St. Joe's July 19

St. Joseph's College will be the site of the Northern Indiana District Assembly of the Rotaries to be held July 19 and sponsored by Rensselaer's own local organization.

The assembly, called by Gary's district governor-elect, Jack Laszkosky, serves as a workshop for new Rotary officers who assume office July 1. The day-long program will be terminated in the evening with a Ladies' Night Banquet.

The actual induction of the local club's new officers will take place at Curtis Creek Country Club with another Ladies' Night dinner also featured.

Glendale Architect Designs Best Church

S. S. Granger, Glendale, Cal., architect, was adjudged winner of the nation-wide mission church design competition which was sponsored by the National Catholic Building Convention and Exposition. A total of 171 designs were submitted in the contest, open to practicing architects, draftsmen, and students of architecture. They were judged here by well-known architects and clergymen, and the announcement of winners was made by the Rev. Alfred J. Zanolar, president of the college.

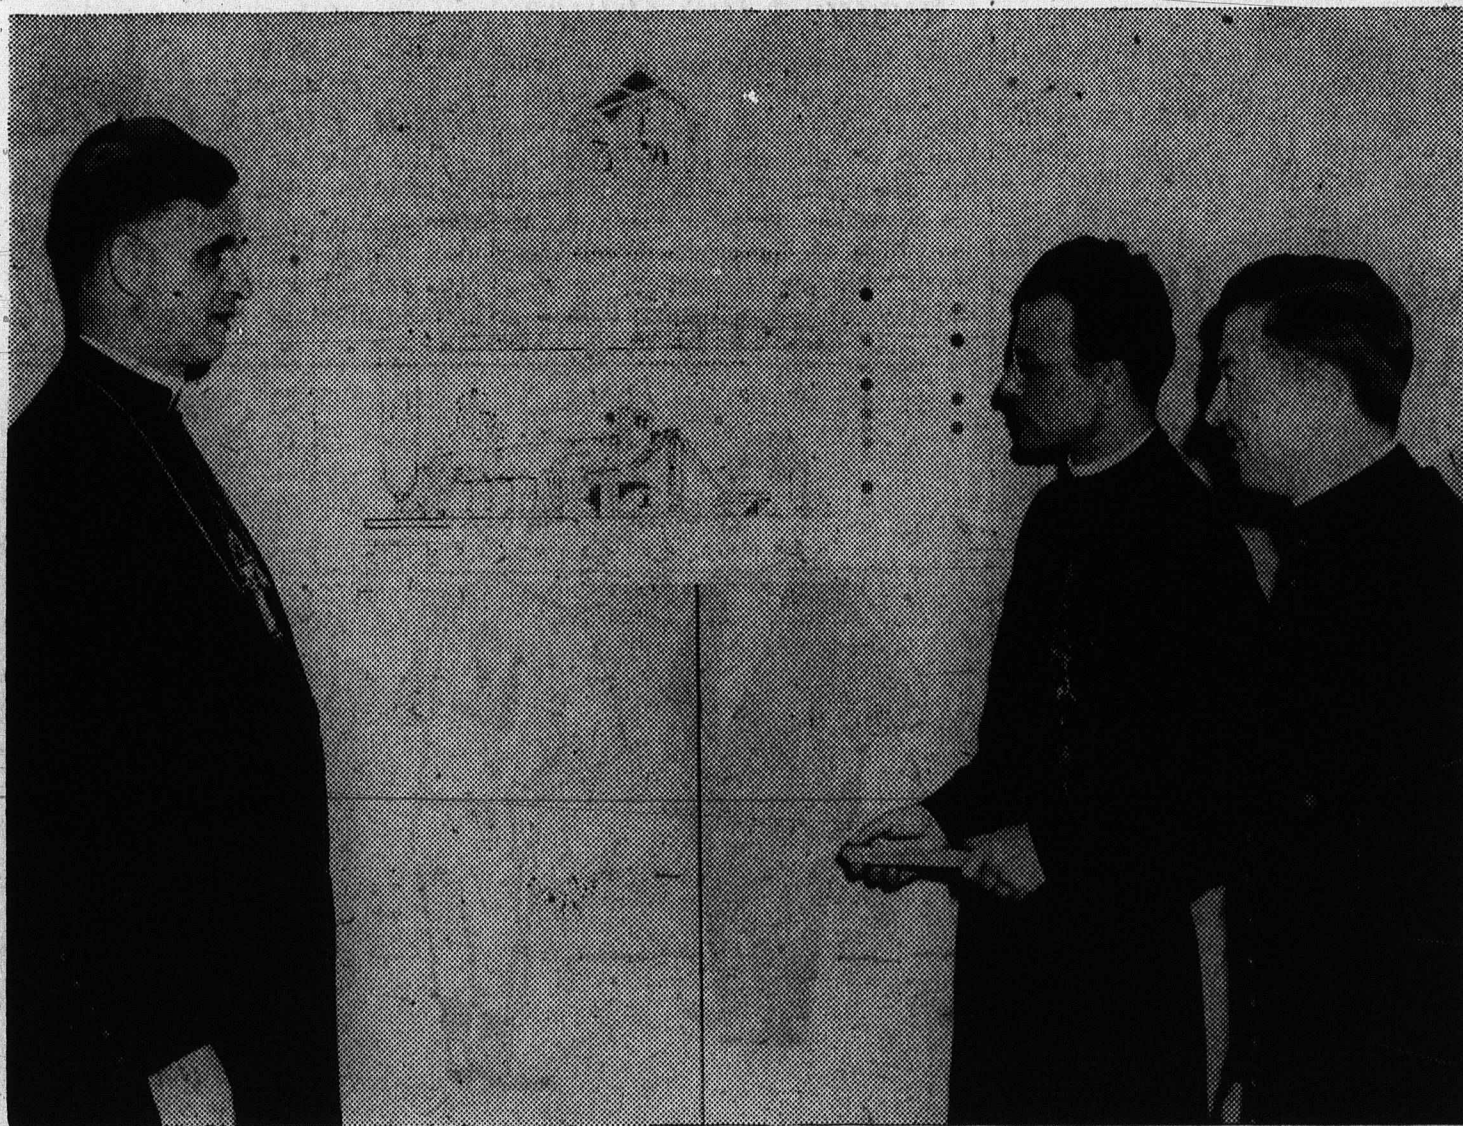

St. Joseph's College will again present the National Catholic Building Convention and Exposition at the Stevens Hotel, Chicago, June 14-16, as a goodwill service to Catholic institutional builders.

Receives Award

For his winning design, Granger will be awarded a $1,000 U. S. "E" Bond. His Eminence, Samuel Cardinal Stritch, archbishop of Chicago, will present the awards on the closing day of the 1949 convention.

Second prize, a $500 bond, will go to Joseph J. Sherer, Milwaukee, Wis., a former Notre Dame student. Third prize, a $200 bond, will be presented to W. J. Ruoff, architectural student at the University of Notre Dame.

Education for Democracy

In an article entitled, "Education for Democratic Living," Louis A. Radelet, professor of Sociology at Notre Dame University, said this in the May-June issue of Concord magazine: "the problem's (the problem of education for democratic living) source lies not so much in a faulty curriculum as in what we are doing with the existing curriculum."

Mr. Radelet has, so to speak, hit the nail right on the head. If education is failing today, which many claim it is, we certainly are not justified in pointing an accusing finger at our curriculum and washing our hands. It may be well to remember that every time our index finger singles out a sinner, three of our fingers point straight to ourselves.

A Christian education for democratic living means simply this: an awakening of the spirit of social consciousness in the light of Christian principles. That is, the establishment of an awareness in a student body of man's social nature, of community, moral and national problems, of the relation of man to man and man to the existing society. Further, it means not only an awakening of the student body to the life of the society, but also a conscious effort on the part of the faculty to supply those factors to the student which are necessary in the task of restoring order, peace, and well-being to the society.

Among the suggestions offered by Mr. Radelet as to how to work with the curriculum in order to develop social consciousness and qualities of leadership in a student body, was the use of panel discussions. Such forums are excellent ways of tackling a problem, and arriving at an answer with a minimum of faculty supervision. The student doesn't like to be told what's wrong; he likes to find out for himself.

This department feels that commendation is due the Rev. Frederick Fehrenbacher and Mr. Donald Shea for their development of faculty-student body discussion in the Recreation Hall on weekday evenings. Students attending are encouraged to present their thoughts, observations, and solutions on current problems in an informal manner. It is a good example of how the task of establishing social awareness can be met, not by changing the existing curriculum, but by working with it.

THRIFT OR THEFT?

Everybody writes these sniff, sniff, farewell-to-fond-memories columns. How can we be different? Well, we can tell you how to go to a ball game on $1.25. I know a couple of guys on this campus who tried it in Chicago at a Sunday doubleheader.

After a long interview the boys gave me the inside dope on how it's done. The first thing to do is borrow the money from someone who wants it back right away. Just $1.25 is all you need . . . just enough to get good seats in the upper deck, down the right-field line, in the 55th row. After a 15-minute argument with a pigeon over who holds the ticket for the reserved nest, you tune in the radio of the guy sitting next to you so that you can tell which team is at bat.

Since you haven't tasted food or drink for six hours, your next step is to locate someone who has had foresight enough to bring a big box of sandwiches with him. You then wait for a home-team rally, and when the fan isn't looking you cunningly procure one of his salami-limburger specials by swiftly placing the hand and forearm into, and then drawing it quickly out of the box he's holding on his big fat lap. You also cut the pigeon in on the crumbs, because he was kind enough to forfeit his nest.

Passing beer from the vendor to the customer, and money from the customer to the vendor, and change from the vendor to the customer, gets monotonous and makes you thirsty before long. In order to combat this evil, you take quick swigs out of the bottles as you pass them on and let some of the change drop into your pants' cuffs at spaced intervals.

Since you don't live in Chicago, when the game is over you go to a buddy's house and sit in his front room for the rest of the evening, picking his food out of your teeth with his toothpicks, while playing his radio. You sleep in his bed that night and return to your starting point the next day on his money.

Just one word of advice . . . Don't spend his money foolishly!

Joseph Puma's Sales Patter Misses Mark

BY UTAH CUMMINGS

Joe Puma folded his roommate's tie very carefully and dropped it into his Joe's, suitcase. He turned to his buddy, who was engaged in blowing smoke rings at what he thought was a mouse-hole, and said, "Y'know, I'm gonna miss it here this summer. Even if I did say I didn't like it, and was gonna be glad to get out of here, I'm gonna miss it."

"Yeah," said the buddy.

"Why, it ain't really so bad here, Dave. One thing you gotta admit, we sure get terrific chow here. And even if I was confined to campus for two months out of three, I got a lot of work done, and managed to come out of here with my 'C' average. So it really ain't worth complaining about."

"Guess not," allowed Dave.

Joe folded his best slacks carefully into a one-foot square and dropped them into the suitcase between his tobacco can and his girl friend's picture. "And you gotta admit, Dave, that this sure is a swell campus, especially around this time of year. Why, all the trees are green, all the flowers are blooming, the grass is trained, an' it even smells good." He took a deep breath through his nose, obviously smelling the delicious odor of St. Joe.

Deep Concentration

Dave crawled into the bottom bunk, lay on his back, laced his fingers across his chest, and went into deep concentration, staring at the springs of the upper bunk.

"And the 'rec' hall, right across the road, almost, can sell us anything we want, at pretty good prices. Don't you think that's a good deal, Dave?"

"Yep," grunted Dave.

Joe stopped packing his suitcase and went over to sit down next to Dave, on the bed. "And just think, Dave, of the education we're getting. Why, it's one of the best in the country. And next year, I understand they're gonna bring in a pile of new teachers, a lot of Ph.D.s."

Dave lit another cigarette, blew smoke at the top bunk, and said, "How 'bout that?"

Joe Speaks

Then Joe went into his finest oration. "And just think how it would be in the summer time, Dave. Why, it'd be better than a resort, all summer. We could swim in the pond, go fishin' . . ."

Dave swung out of the bed and walked to the door. He turned, blew smoke at Joe, and said, "Look! I know this is a swell place an' we got good chow an' all that, but just 'cause you flunked out of two courses, don't think I'm gonna come back an' go to summer school with you. Well, s'long, see you next year."

Veterans Hold Annual Picnic

The college Veterans Club held its annual picnic on Ascension Thursday, May 26. The main events were held at Tiger McGrath's family's cottage on Freeman Lake. Fred Frisk as head of the food committee, with the assistance of Bill Nowak and Jim Scholl, served two meals, lunch and supper. The chairman of the affair was Bill Ciminilli, the president of the organization.

Transportation was provided by Mr. Paul Brunsanahan of Rensselaer.

C. C. Elects Officers

Robert Ryan, sophomore of Fort Wayne, has been elected president of the Commerce Club according to an announcement made by Fred Sieben, Chicago, senior and outgoing president.

Other new officers are Charles Teaney, Aurora, vice-president; Paul Bauman, Battle Creek, Mich., secretary; and Pat McAviney, Davison, Mich., treasurer.

GAG BUSTERS

BY BEECH

The prom is gone, but the memories linger on . . . It seems Jay Myers forgot to turn the lights out after the dance, and Ed, the janitor, had to go into a second-story routine to save the "Mazdas." Then there is Bob Froelich, who was still wandering around in a tuxedo at 6:00 p.m. the next day.

If the quartet at the dance brought down the house, then the quartet at the party brought down the chandelier . . . The four unwashed included, Ron "Mamy" Miniat, William "Polak" Kelly, Tom "where am I" Quinn, and Charles "I'm usually quiet" Teaney . . . These pseudo entertainers gave a well-received exhibition of songs, dances, and funny falls, which blended perfectly with the background of party stories, potato salad, and champagne caps (Chamagne Velvet, that is!).

Wally Wiseman must also be considered as a man of accomplishment. Not only did he succeed in running into Jack Bushell's car, but he also managed to worm a shoulder under the head of Pat McAviney's girl, on the long ride home . . . "Be kind to Nancy week" paid off. At least it took Bushell two and a half hours to make the return trip from Brook . . . His story is that it was such a nice night they decided to walk.

Wally Moore gave his girl an engagement ring, and from the size of the rock it is concluded that "Bumps" will spend the rest of his days punching a time clock . . . Bill McCaslin is another engaged gentleman with a few payments to make. Willie could not be found after the dance. According to Mac, they found a secluded rendezvous.

Bystanders were amazed at "Jocko" Sullivan's ability to read the next day. This mighty feat of "eye-focusing" was small time for a man with such recuperative powers . . . Jack says he could not only read, but he could read and interpret.

Drexel hall seems to be its same unruly self. Despite a change in regime, it still appears as if the children love to live dangerously.

The riddle of the missing chalk has been solved . . . St. Joseph's has added a new sport . . . Hopscotch . . . Members of the team include Patrick Kennedy, champ, Marty McGowan, Steve Vincent, and John Naab, acting referee.

Now that everyone is broke, the spring isn't so springy, and cupid has exhausted most of his arrows, the following thought is offered . . . More sage advice . . . When you find yourself getting deeper and deeper into the forest, and you have forgotten to blaze your trail, climb one of the tallest trees you can find and take a good look around, before going on.

Busy Weekend Keeps Campus Active

Several events of note took place on the St. Joseph's College campus over the weekend of May 23.

Delegates of the National Federation of Catholic College Students, coming from six Indiana and Michigan Catholic colleges held a regional council meeting at the college Sunday, May 23. During the proceedings John Metzner, St. Joe freshman of Delphos, Ohio, took over the presidency of the Ft. Wayne region.

The St. Joe baseball team embarked on a southern trip to play Xavier University and Earlham College. They split, losing to Xavier and beating Earlham.

First Student Back

Threatening weather didn't keep a host of former students from visiting the campus. Among these was the first student to enroll at St. Joseph's, the Rev. Christian Daniel, former local pastor and now in the same capacity at St. Joseph's church, Pulaski. Father Chris is becoming even more of a celebrity as St. Joe nears its 60th birthday.

Among other weekend visitors was the Rev. Aloys Dirksen, president of St. Joe from 1938 to 1944 and now a professor at the University of Notre Dame.

Gorman Hurls Pumas to Win Over Eastern

Mike Beaven, freshman third baseman, poled two long home-runs, May 14, to lead St. Joe to a 9-6 victory over a highly-touted Eastern Illinois aggregation before a large Prom Day gathering on the local field.

Chuck Gorman hurled steady ball to gain credit for his first win of the season, although he required the assistance of lefty Don Tesmond in the eighth frame. Workhorse Tesmond came on in the eighth to halt an Eastern uprising which netted the visitors their final three counters.

The Pumas obtained a brace of runs in the opening stanza. Wally Moore led off with a single and scored ahead of Angel Barrientos when Illinois left-fielder, Anderson, permitted the Collegeville short-stop's normal single to skip through him for a three-base error.

Knot Score Twice

A walk, two singles, and a Gorman miscue enabled Eastern to knot the score in the top of the second before Mike Beaven cracked his first round tripper of the campaign in the last half of the same inning. The losers, however, deadlocked the contest at 3-3 in their half of the sixth.

The home club stashed the game away in their turn in the sixth by tallying four times. A pass to Tom Quinn preceded a double by Jerry Leahy, a walk to Beaven, a single by Moore, and another two-base wallop by Barrientos. Leahy stole home to highlight the production.

Jules De Bouck worked five rounds for the visitors, giving up six hits and six runs. He gave way to Milt Schonebaum during the Puma's four-run sixth. Hilligross entered in the seventh after Schonebaum had been lifted for a pinch hitter.

Locals Split Two On Ohio Trip

The Pumas returned to Collegeville from their only extended road trip of the season May 24 with an even split in games with Xavier and Earlham.

At Cincinnati the Musketeers' Don Ruberg and Baldy Ellert combined to deal the visitors a 4-0 whitewashing. Ruberg hurled a fancy five-hitter and second baseman Ellert drove home three runs and scored another. Charlie Gorman went the route for St. Joe and was touched for eight hits, all of them in the first four frames.

Ellert tallied the first run for the Queen City squad in the second. He singled, took second on an infield out, and rode home on shortstop Scherpenberg's one baser. In the next inning Ellert whacked a round tripper with teammates Hoffer and Russell aboard.

Kuhn, Moore Hit

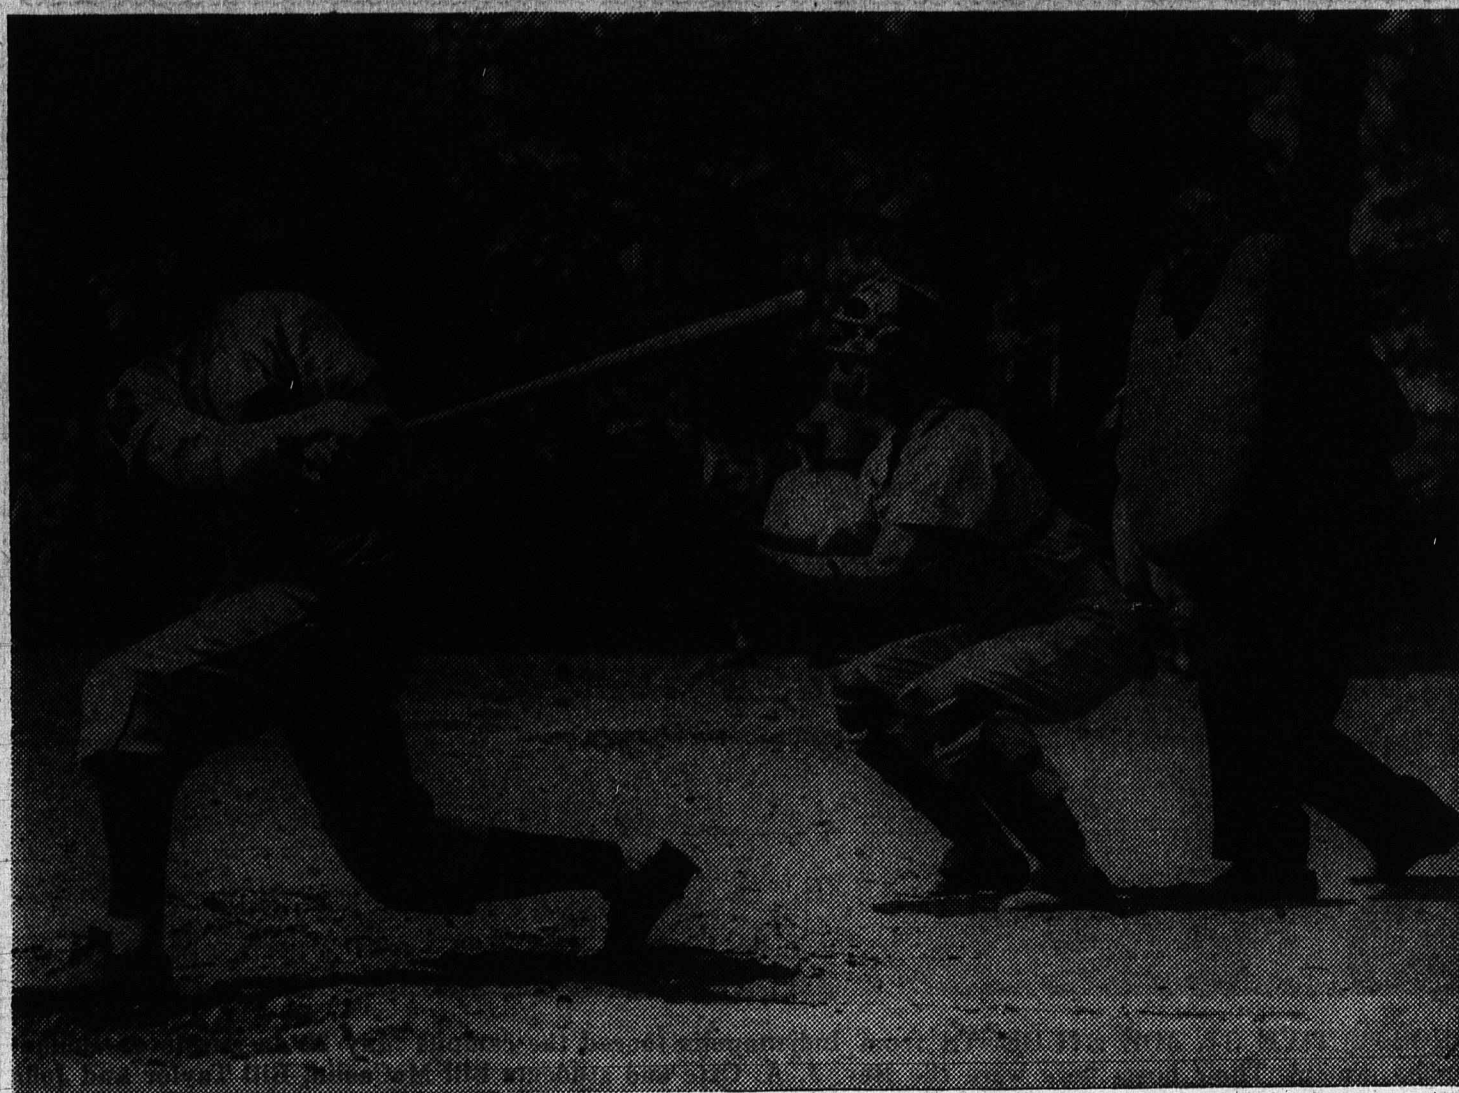

After the first canto the Pumas secured only three bingles off Ruberg. Hits by Wally Moore and Clarence Kuhn and a walk to Tom Quinn loaded the bases and got Ruberg into hot water in the initial stanza. Jerry Leahy, however, fanned and the Xavier righthander was on his way. He struck out 10 and walked only one.

Pete Perlongo notched his second victory against no losses, May 24, at Richmond when the Scharfmen defeated Earlham 4-2. Perlongo, who tired in the ninth and required the assistance of Don Tesmond, gave nine hits, whiffed seven, and issued four passes.

The Pumas garnered only eight blows off two Earlham hurlers, but five errors by the home club made the St. Joe task comparatively simple. The winners tallied one in the third canto, were tied in the fourth, then iced the game with two in the sixth and another in the seventh. The hosts scored their second run in the ninth round.

"Cy" Clouts One

PITCHER CY BOHNEY poles out a long one in a recent baseball game on the St. Joe diamond.

Cardinals Even Count; Win 12-8

The high scoring ball game, which has taken precedence over the pitcher's battle at Puma park this season, was in evidence once again, May 17, as Ball State slammed out a 12-8 win over Dick Scharf's charges. In evening matters with St. Joe for the season, the Cardinals rapped four Puma pitchers for 15 hits, among which were included a home run, three triples, and a double. The locals were also in a hitting mood. They obtained 13 safe shots off State ace, Orval Reed, but could not punch them effectively after the second inning.

Reed went the route for the Cards despite the fact that he was cuffed with regularity. After the second round, however, when five hits and three miscues netted the home club seven scores, he was very tough with men on the bases. Reed struck out only one and passed three.

Don Tesmond opened on the hill for St. Joe, but retired quickly after working only two-thirds of an inning. His early exit was brought about by six hits good for four runs. The lefthander was followed to the slab by Tom Lynch, the eventual loser, Pete Perlongo, and Maurie Hamilton. Perlongo was the only one to check the Cards. He tossed four and one-third frames, granting two runs on one hit.

State wasted no time letting known their intentions. After lead-off man Brainard popped out, shortstop Keller singled to left to start the parade. A three-bagger and four more singles handed the Cards a 4-0 lead before Tom Lynch could retire the side.

The Pumas biggest inning of the season came in the second stanza, Singles by Mike Beaven, Jerry Leahy, and Bud Greif, a triple by Jim Dolan, a four master by Clarence Kuhn, and three Ball State errors allowed St. Joe to take the lead at 7-4.

The winners added two in the third on three hits and an error and then sealed the verdict in the following frame with four more markers. Keller's third single was followed by a line drive home run to left center by center fielder Davis. Pete Perlongo took over for Lynch and walked rightfielder McColly before second sacker Morris blasted a triple to left. Morris scored on a wild pitch by Perlongo.

Run number eight crossed for the Pumas in the eighth, Clarence Kuhn's single being the driving force. State tallied a pair off Maurie Hamilton in the top of the ninth to finish the scoring.

INTRAMURALS

For the second straight year, the "Peaceful Greeks of the 12-inch League batted their way to the Intramural crown. Their season record shows nine wins against one loss.

A five-way tie exists for second place in the league with the Youngsters, Lazy Nine, Towners, Mongolians and the Herd O' Turtles deadlocked with records of seven wins against three losses.

Final Game

Needing one victory to clinch the crown, the Greeks subdued the Youngsters in the last game of the season by a 4-1 score.

Dan McDevitt was on the mound for the Greeks, with Bill Fox twirling for the Youngsters. A pitchers' duel followed with both men setting the opposition down in the first two innings.

The Greeks drew blood first by garnering a run in the third inning on a walk, a stolen base and a single by John Smith. They picked up two more runs in the fourth inning on a walk and two Texas league doubles.

The Youngsters scored their only run in the fourth on two walks, and a fielder's choice. A total of eight men were left

Netters Fifth At Little State

St. Joe netmen hung up their racquets for the 1949 season following competition in the Little State meet at Earlham May 26-28. Entering in a crowd of ten participating teams, the Cardinal and Purple emerged a successful fifth with decisive wins over Valparaiso, Indiana State, Canterbury, Taylor, and Anderson. The meet was won by Tri-State College of Angola.

The Pumas' Joe Hawkins went to the quarter finals in the singles before being nosed out by a Tri-State competitor 5-7, 7-5, 6-2. In doubles matches Hawkins teamed with Ed Pluth and succumbed to the Lytle brothers of Earlham, 6-4, 6-4.

At Valparaiso on May 11, the Puma netmen downed the Crusaders

Valpo Falls To Powerful Puma Hitting

The pitching wasn't in evidence but the hitting certainly was, May 22, when three twirlers toiled for the Pumas during a 15-11 victory over Valparaiso on the Collegeville campus. None of the three were particularly masterful in their roles, but fortunately neither were three Crusader chuckers who fell victim to 15 hits and the Pumas' second seven-run inning of the week.

John Nelson, Red Fritz, and George Schreiber were the scapegoats for the losers. Nelson was replaced by Fritz after walking five straight men in the third inning. The redheaded southpaw stayed around long enough to be rocked for seven tallies in the St. Joe sixth before calling for aid from the gigantic Schreiber. Fritz was the loser.

Chuck Gorman started for the winners, but bowed out after three innings and five runs worth. Don Tesmond relieved Gorman but he was equally erratic. The chunky southpaw, however, became the first home moundsman to notch two decisions when his mates scored seven important markers during his tenure. Pete Perlongo performed the unusual of the day. He took over for Tesmond in the eighth round and pitched one and two-thirds innings in effective style.

Valpo Holds Edge

After five stanzas and two hours of play Valpo had an 8-7 edge, thanks to single scores in the first and second and two each in the third, fourth, and fifth. The Pumas remained in contention by tallying three in the second, two in the third, and another pair in the fourth.

In the bottom sixth, however, the locals blasted Fritz and Schreiber for seven runs on six hits. Five singles and a double spelled doom for the Crusaders.

Trailing 14-8, the Warnekemen threw a scare into the home guard in the eighth when shortstop Harner clouted a three-run circuit drive. Perlongo rushed to the scene at this point and halted the rally.

Jim Dolan, the Puma's sure fielding second baseman, paced the 15-hit assault. Dolan whacked out two singles and a double and chased home three runs. Clarence Kuhn, Tom Quinn, Mike Beaven, and Don Tesmond each collected two hits.

It's Wible Again; State Wins 12-6

Ray Reschan's sharp double to left field sparked Indiana State to a five-run seventh inning and sent the Sycamores winging to a 12-6 verdict over St. Joe, May 27, on the Collegeville diamond. The contest was the finale for the Pumas who finished the campaign with a 6-9 record. By winning the Staters raised their season mark to 11 victories in 13 games.

Prior to Reschan's sock Maurie Hamilton, surprise St. Joe starter, had been hurling on even terms with the Sycamores' Darrel Wible. Wible, who fashioned a no-hitter in a previous start against the locals, held a scant 3-2 edge at this stage. Two more hits and three more runs followed the husky first sacker's drive before Chuck Gorman outened the fire. The victors rapped Gorman and Don Tesmond for four additional tallies in the eighth.

Wible wasn't as perfect as he was in his first appearance against the Pumas, but was good enough. He gave only five base knocks and had a 12-3 lead when he was removed from the box in favor of George Elish during a mild uprising in the St. Joe eighth. Elish permitted the Pumas two more hits.

Local Editor Crowns Queen At St. Joe Prom

St. Joseph's 1949 Prom, May 14, attended by 151 couples who danced to the music of Buddy Di-Vito and his orchestra, proved to be a huge social success.

The affair was highlighted by the coronation of Miss Marion O'Keefe, of Chicago, as Prom Queen, and the Grand March. Awards to the Queen's court were made by Don Ronan, chairman of the prom, and Bud Clark, editor of STUFF, who crowned the Queen.

Fieldhouse Transformed

Members of the Junior class had the fieldhouse decorated in fine style, using the front portion of the floor for tables and refreshments, and the rear section for dancing.

Red, white and blue decorations, with blue and red spotlighting, lent atmosphere for the evening's dancing.

They Came . . . They Saw . . .

PROSPECTIVE ST. JOE STUDENTS from Indianapolis toured the campus May 22 as guests of Indianapolis alumni. Their hosts here were the Rev. J. A. Otte and students Bill McCaslin, Bill Taylor and John Weaver. Alumni escorts were Judge Joseph Howard, Robert Cunningham, Bill Moran and Hugh Davey.

Band Musicale Offers Variety

The annual Spring Musicale was held in the College Theatre, May 11, under the direction of Mr. Paul Tonner, college music director, and Mr. Daniel Connor. The program consisted of a cornet trio, a clarinet solo, songs by the College and Xavier Glee Clubs, a flute solo, barber-shop quartet singing, and compositions for band by Rubinstein, Mozkowski, Friml, and Sousa.

The cornet trio played "Perpetuum Mobile," a number written especially for the occasion by Mr. Tonner. The trio consisted of James Hill, William Hoffman, and Leonard Wildenhaus.

Flute Solo

Daniel Connor, instructor in music, played a flute solo "Flight of the Bumble Bee." Other sax soloists were Leo Tonner, Alton Zimmerman, and Ernest Ranly, while Rene Kempen featured on the clarinet.

Keith Forton, Ed Powers, Phil Powers, and Richard Kasmer, made up the quartet which gave out with some real barber-shop harmony. The piano team which accompanied the finale was composed of Leonard Wildenhaus and Robert Griglak.
